

JAMES MOORE HICKSON. LONDON, Nov. 14 (Canadian Press). James Moore Hickson, who conducted spiritual healing missions in many parts of the world, died today. Mr. Hickson was in the United States in 1919. In South Africa and Australia he was credited with cures of paralysis and cancer through prayer and laying on of hands. His mission received official recognition in 1924 by the Bishop of Bradford.

Digital Copyright ©2004 by Healing and Revival Press. All rights reserved. Excerpt from November 15, 1933 "New York Times" newspaper. Minor typographical corrections were made.